

Department of Disaster Management Master's Degree Program Outcomes

1. By using the information in the field of Disaster Management by reaching the information by making scientific research uses theoretical and applied knowledge.
2. Develop and deepen their knowledge in the relevant program field at the level of expertise by using interdisciplinary interaction to be able to conduct studies in the field of Disaster Management, Choose and apply methods that are suitable for the purpose.
3. To be able to create new knowledge by using the theoretical and applied knowledge at the level of expertise gained in the field of Disaster Management by integrating and interpreting the information from different disciplines and to solve the problems encountered by using research methods.
4. Studies that require proficiency in the field of disaster management, knowledge and skills to critically evaluate the opportunity to learn independently, executing, take responsibility and leadership by developing new strategic approaches for the solution of complex problems by making a solution can produce.
5. To be able to systematically transmit current events in the field of Disaster Management and its own work together to groups in its field and outside the field, in written, oral and visual form, using information and communication technologies.
6. To be able to teach social, scientific, cultural and ethical values in the collection, interpretation, implementation and announcement of data on Disaster Management and to develop strategies, policies and implementation plans on related issues.
7. Attains a standard knowledge and competence that will enable to apply the knowledge and skills acquired in the awareness of social, legal, moral and ethical values in interdisciplinary studies and to access doctoral degree programs.