

Nursing Master's Degree (Second Cycle) Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of the program, the student:

1. Is Able to transfer scientific knowledge effectively and correctly.
2. Has a essential vocational knowledge and skills in health and nursing area practice.
3. Finds practical solutions for problems in current events that related with health area.
4. Develops to expert level in knowledge of their nursing and health area.
5. Creates new knowledge and theories using this knowledge to meet the needs of health society.
6. Is inclined to both individual and team works.
7. Develops positive attitudes about lifelong research and study.
8. Uses their knowledge within the framework of ethical and social responsibilities.