

Program Outcomes

1. To review, analysis and assessment national and international levels of government, law, politics, urbanization and environmental issues that arise in the theoretical and practical innovations to follow in these areas
2. To develop plans, strategy, policy and implementation issues related to public administration, and to evaluate the results obtained
3. To strengthen the analysis and design process for the problem has a defined target in line with the perspective of public administration processes
4. To endow with the ability to consider social, scientific and ethical values in the processes of gathering, interpreting and announcing data in relation to administration, politics, law, urbanisation and environment.
5. Ability to translate current developments and the work of the public administration, in written, oral and visual
6. To advance the scientific and professional ethic responsibility